

NEGRO MINISTER CRITICIZES STUDENT MOVEMENT

CHARLOTTE, Feb. 9 (AP)—A Negro minister and newspaper publisher condemned student demonstrations for an end to segregated lunch counter service today as "uncalled for, unnecessary, ill-advised and inexpedient."

Dr. J. S. Nathaniel Tross, pastor of an AME Zion Church here and publisher of the weekly Charlotte Post, made the statement in a radio interview.

Dr. Tross asserted that the demonstration in Charlotte was inspired and financed outside the city, but did not elaborate.
