

"Can't Be Found"

Editor of the Daily News:

I have been reading Public Pulse regularly since the opening of hostilities and find the letters published there extremely interesting. Some are merely shallow and amusing while others have the depth and understanding that reflects a logical mind.

But there's one type that really leaves me cold. In this the writer states that "according to the Constitution . . ." or "the Bible says . . ."

At the risk of seeming unpatriotic and blasphemous, I must say I'm of the opinion that any person, white or black, who states a belief and adds an eloquent phrase from the Constitution or Bible as his one and only clincher not only gives proof of a very limited education but is also obviously sadly lacking in reasoning ability.

True, there are many noble and profound thoughts in this pair of dated works but in this modern, complex day and age there's a passel of problems to which the answers can't be found in either, except by fools who only imagine they can be.

CHARLIE BAIN

High Point.