

Negro Attorneys Hear Professor

A Howard University, Washington, law professor said yesterday that the right not to be excluded from the general public is a principle of law that is well recognized in our jurisprudence.

Herbert O. Reid spoke to about 60 Negro lawyers here at a quarterly meeting of the Southeastern Lawyers Association at Forest Lake Country Club. His topic brothers, Howard and Ab Stewart of Winston-Salem, Raymond Stewart of Washington and Tom Stewart of California; and a half brother, Pete Ferguson of California.

was "Legal Offense and Defense of the Sit-in Demonstrations."

The meeting closed last night with a banquet of which E. M. Alexander, local attorney, was chairman. Major S. High, local attorney, is president of the association.
