

Integration Vote Planned At Danville

DANVILLE, Va., May 10 — Danville's public library integration problem will be submitted to a popular referendum on a date yet to be set.

The City Council has named a committee of three to draw the ordinance providing for the vote.

The ordinance will specify that the referendum will be advisory and not binding on the council.

Federal Judge Robey Thompson has ordered Danville to open the library to both races but has granted a 10-day stay to permit an appeal.
