

Right To Be Served

Editor of the Daily News:

Some restaurants have signs up that say, "We retain the right to refuse service to anyone."

When the restaurateur obtains the privilege to operate a restaurant with a license, he gets it from an agency which is a part of the government of North Carolina.

Every voter of the state delegated his power with the government in the granting of this license. Therefore, every voter has the right to be served.

Why don't people stop and think instead of chasing themselves around in circles—getting nowhere?
