Executive Summary

With more than 500 community partners and counting, it is clear that the Greensboro Public Library and Greensboro History Museum are firmly woven into the fabric of this city. Professional staff at the library build strong ties to individuals and organizations by cultivating meaningful partnerships. In this way, we co-create with our community.

When planning programming for our customers we are seeking impact rather than ordinary. Our objective is to provide transformative experiences. From early literacy initiatives to computer workshops for seniors, the Library promotes learning opportunities for residents of every age and ability. Free offerings include storytimes, homework help, small business and career assistance, consumer tools, genealogy, hobby resources, investment research, travel planning, and so much more.

Who We Are

Mission

In partnership with the community, the Greensboro Public Library strives to provide free and equal access to information, foster lifelong learning, and inspire the joys of reading.

What it means...

Founded in 1902, the Greensboro Public Library has been serving our community for over 100 years. From a simple beginning as a single room in City Hall to the modern library system we have today, services have evolved to meet the changing needs of our customers.

In partnership with the community...

In Greensboro, individuals and organizations gather at the public library to learn for themselves and about others. Libraries are community hubs offering collaborative environments and valuable resources for meetings and activities. Through projects like One City, One Book and celebrations like El día de los niños/El día de los libros, the Library has taken a leading role in building a true sense of community. The atmosphere at Central Library, our seven branch locations and the Greensboro History Museum fosters a sense of belonging and acceptance.

Provide free and equal access to information...

The founding principle of this institution is free and equal access to information. As the “people’s university,” the library helps to ensure that this nation has the educated residents our democracy was founded upon. Expect the Greensboro Public Library to be a primary advocate for your intellectual freedom.

Foster lifelong learning...

From early literacy initiatives that connect young parents and babies with books to computer workshops for seniors, the Library promotes learning opportunities for residents of every age and ability. Free offerings include storytimes, homework help, small business and career assistance, consumer tools, genealogy, hobby resources, investment research, travel planning, and more. Additionally, the Library and Greensboro History Museum serve the community with a goal to Collect and Connect. We Collect artifacts and stories and Connect with individuals and groups through programs and resources that preserve and showcase our shared histories.

Inspire the joys of reading...

Reading is the road to growth and discovery. It is through shared knowledge and communication that we gain understanding, which contributes to greater community, greater personal freedom and ultimately, lifelong learning. We support over 120 community reading groups in the community.

We are committed to:

- Access – We provide free and equal access to information, programs, and services.
- Civic Engagement – We identify and address issues of public concern.
- Collaboration - We build strong teams by cultivating meaningful partnerships. We co-create with our community.
- Excellence - We put our customers first. We hold ourselves to the highest standards and provide exceptional service experiences by ensuring the recruitment, hiring, and retention of talented, dedicated professionals. We are empathetic, responsive, and accountable.
- Inclusion – We embrace differences and learn from them while modeling respect. We are a welcoming place for all.
- Innovation – We create, discover, seek feedback, and take risks. We embrace change and pivot accordingly.
- Learning - We foster lifelong learning. We support literacy, curiosity, and cultural enrichment. We uphold everyone’s right to seek information, voice diverse points of view, and privacy.
- Sustainability – We create a strong present and future library and museum by making strategic decisions with intentionality.

The Greensboro Public Library engages, equips, and empowers all members of the community to explore avenues of discovery and foster meaningful connections. Start here, go anywhere. Your Conduit to Destiny®.
